Harding Declares Eighteenth Amendment Will Stand Forever

"All May As Well Realize That and Act Accordingly," Says Pres. In Message Today.

CALLS GOVERNORS

Still Against League; Urges Abolition of Rail Wage Board and Setting up of New System.

VARIED SUBJECTS

For the first time in history the words of a president as he spoke to Congress will be heard all over the nation. The message was radioed from the Anacostia station with naval officers in charge. President Harding spoke directly into a transmitter. It is believed that the words will carry as far as the Rocky Mountains and be heard plainly all along the Atlantic Coast.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—In a message that covered the entire scope of domestic and foreign problems confronting the United States, President Harding laid before Congress the most extensive legislative program outlined in many years and took occasion throughout his message to make statements of policy, and purpose which strengthen those who heard him.

As the president before the world the foreign policy of the United States government is being the same as when he took office—refusal to become a part of any European league or organization.

His domestic program contained startling proposals. Among them was abolition of the Railway Wage Board and the setting up of a Labor Board of the Interstate Commerce Commission composed of four members, with anti-strike legislation to support it.

Consolidation of the railroads of the country into a few great systems. An anti-child labor amendment to the constitution.

Additional legislation in the form of loan extension and broader powers for the Farm Loan Board to assist agriculture.

An answer to Georges Clemenceau and others who criticize the post war attitude of the United States.

A conference of all the governors of the forty-eight states of the nation on prohibition enforcement.

To the critics of the government on its post war attitude, President Harding said in effect that this nation has not and would not judge European controversies as between nations, become umpire, referee or accept any other entangling commission. And that it would not become a member of any league, the obligations of which would plunge us into European disputes, territorial or otherwise.

President Harding emphatically called on the nation to uphold the Eighteenth Amendment and prohibition enforcement declaring conditions relating to enforcement, now savor of national disgrace and that condonation of lawlessness in respect to the Volstead Act was building up a contempt for law which might ultimately destroy the very foundation of the republic. He stated that the frequency of law violations constituted a most demoralizing influence which must be removed.

To the end that these liquor law violations be minimized the president announced that he will immediately call a conference of the governors of all the states for the purpose of formulating a definite policy or program of liquor law enforcement.

There was no evidence of the President weakening on the liquor question. He emphatically declared "The Eighteenth Amendment will never be repealed. All may as well realize that and act accordingly."

His recommendations to Congress as the problems confronting the farmer were varied and comprehensive.

RORY O'CONNOR AND LIAM MELLOWS EXECUTED BY THE FREE STATERS IN REPRISALS FOR MURDER OF HALES

Dublin, Ireland, Dec. 8.—Rory O'Connor and Liam Mellows, Irish "rebels" captured after the insurrection against the Free State in Dublin some months ago were, executed by the Free State Government this morning. Four other rebel officers, were executed at the same time. It was announced that the executions were in reprisal for the assassination of Sean Hales, a member of the Free State parliament, which took place yesterday.

The execution caused almost as much excitement among the insurgents as did the execution of Children a few weeks ago as O'Connors and Mellows were looked upon as the heroes of the siege of the Four Corners, both sticking to their posts against heavy odds until captured.

U. S. MAILS ROBBED IN TWO MISSOURI CITIES EARLY TODAY

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 8.—United States Mail was seized by armed bandits here and at St. Joseph, Mo., today in swift raids in which wagon drivers were kidnapped and mail clerks were held up at the point of a pistol. At Kansas City by kidnapping wagon drivers the bandits looted more than eighty parcels and obtained many thousands of dollars of valuables. At St. Joseph mail clerks were held up and many parcels of registered mail taken.

MRS. CATHERINE COULTER

The funeral of Mrs. Catharine Tabitha Coulter, wife of William E. Coulter, was held in the U. B. church at Sanborn Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. E. J. Hummel of Clearfield, in the presence of a large concourse of the people of the community and friends from Johnstown, Clearfield and other places. She leaves to mourn a husband, four sons and two daughters, Calvin, Harold, Leroy and Allison, Laura and Velma, also two brothers and other near relatives. Mrs. Coulter died of sugar diabetes after an illness of several years. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of the community.

MYSTERY STREAM GUSHING FROM HILL BRINGS RELIEF IN ANTHRACITE DROUGHT

Pottsville, Pa., Dec. 7.—In the midst of the greatest drought ever known in the anthracite region, threatening to shut off the mining of coal, a large stream of water where none has ever been known before, was today gushing out from under the Philadelphia and Reading railway tracks in the southern part of this county. The sudden appearance of the water at this time seemed miraculous and crowds of incredulous people went to see the unusual sight.

It came like the famous "Providence Spring" in Andersonville prison during the Civil War days when men were dying of thirst on what amounted to a desert spot in Georgia. As "Providence Spring" burst forth unexpectedly, so came the deluge of water in the midst of a terrific drought, in the lower end of this county.

It has been found that the water does not come from any leaking water pipes and its origin from the base of Shary mountain is a mystery.

Mitchell, Jr., Mahaffey; W. L. Schonenberg, New Millport; F. C. Mahaffey, Mahaffey; James Mullen, Woodland.

ASTORIA, OREGON, LOSES 19 CITY BLOCKS BY FIRE

Astoria, Oregon, Dec. 8.—Fire today threatened the entire business section of this city. The fire, at last reports, was still raging and had consumed nineteen city blocks with a property loss running over $10,000,000. The fire broke out in a poor room at a late hour last night and is eating its way into the very heart of the city.

Morris D. Staples, President of the Bank of Commerce dropped dead of heart failure while fighting the flames.

BEZDEK TO REFUSE TO LEAVE STATE TO PILOT THE "PHILS"

State College, Dec. 6.—Penn State students were filled with joy tonight when they learned that Hugo Bezdek had refused the offer to manager the Philadelphia National league baseball team and had decided to remain in college work here. The Phillie job would have meant probably double the salary that he receives as director of athletics at Penn State.

"With me it is a question of service," said Bezdek tonight, "and feel that there is a far greater opportunity for service in working with young college men than there would be in professional baseball. In college work there is the wonderful chance to influence the young men in the right way and to help material in building character. Financially this means the sacrifice of several thousand dollars a year, but idealism and money and I find that my ideal can best be worked out in college ranks. In making my decision, many appeals from students and alumni asking me to remain in Penn State also had their effect and for these reasons I felt that I could no longer consider the Phillies offer."

TRINITY CHURCH

The revival meeting in Trinity church is started every night with prayer service and song periods. Last night, despite the reduced number present, both went forward with exceptional spirit. The singing was fine. New selections that mature everyone because of their sentiment and wonderful music were learned Prof. Jones had the entire congregation in jubilant singing spirit and general response to his leading.

With two texts, "He became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross," and "As by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of One shall many be made righteous," the sermon was built into a study of the Atonement, which was treated from obedience to the divine will and sufferings, though innocent, the penalty of guilt, taking the place of the sinner.

Tonight is the last secular night for Prof. Jones. The song service starts at 7:30. Prayer meeting, Saturday night, open-air meeting, with singing and address. Sunday has a full program from Bible school and the morning and evening worship. Also, a men's meeting at 3 o'clock.

PENNSYLVANIA'S SOFT COAL OUTPUT IN 1921 REACHED 107,019,246 TONS, THIS COUNTY PRODUCED 5,200,714

Value of Coal Going Out of This County Is Set at $15,000,000 By the State Department.

WORKED 120 DAYS

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 8.—Pennsylvania's bituminous coal fields gave up 107,019,246 tons of bituminous coal in 1921, according to figures made public today by Secretary of Internal Affairs James F. Woodward, following the completion of an industrial survey of the bituminous mine districts by the Bureau of Statistics and Information of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs. Secretary Woodward added that the value of the bituminous production at the mines was $300,295,100 last year.

Records compiled by the Department of Internal Affairs show that there were 1,236 bituminous mining establishments in the State in 1921 which worked on an average of 135 days during the year. The mines gave employment to 174,489 persons of whom 68,855 were Americans white, 3,430 were Americans colored and 102,204 were foreigners. Of the total employees 174,484 were males and 11 females, four of the latter being employed in Allegheny County and seven having been reported in Washington County. There were 150 boys under the age of 16 years engaged in mine work.

Bituminous mine workers were paid a total wage during the year of $190,743,700 all but $8,700 of which went to the male employees. The capital invested in the bituminous mines in 1921 was $217,751,800.

Of the total bituminous tonnage in Pennsylvania, almost one-half of it was shipped to points outside of Pennsylvania for consumption, the records showing that the amount shipped from the State was $0,131,968 tons, with a value at the mines of $143,256,300.

In shipments made outside of the State, Cambria County led, the shipments totalling 8,701,442 tons worth $27,757,000 at the mines. Washington county stood second with 8,527,581 tons forwarded to points outside of Pennsylvania, this tonnage having a value of $21,143,406 at the mines.

In total production in 1921, Westmoreland county led all of the other bituminous counties of the State with a production of 16,784,168 tons. Fayette county stood second in production with 15,869,647 tons and Washington county was third with 15,467,987 tons. Fourth on the list was Cambria county with 15,099,218 tons; and Allegheny was fifth with 11,412,842 tons.

In production value at the mines Cambria county headed the list with $48,123,000, and Westmoreland was second with $43,580,300. Standing third was Washington county with $38,143,406.

Turks Accept Principles of Dardanelles Freedom Of School Children HEAR OF PRACTICAL BENEFITS OF SEALS

Lauanne, Dec. 8.—The Turks today accepted the freedom of the Dardanelles with minor reservations and the meeting adjourned to permit Lord Curzon to consult with the Allied leaders before proceeding to the next step in the negotiations. The Turkish answer did not seriously cash with the Allied plans.

REVIVAL SERVICES COMMENCE AT SALVATION ARMY

A series of six days revival services opened at the Salvation Army last night at 8 p. m. Colonel Joseph Hammond who is a world wide Evangelist and Salvation Army traveler is conducting this series of meetings. His talk last night showed the reality of the devil, and how he has great power. "There is something more than an imaginary Devil" the Colonel went on to say "He is a personal devil." He also showed through his talk on Job, how God was able to take us overcochers under every trial of life.

Tonight the Colonel will speak on "Boundless Salvation". Everybody is invited to attend this important service. These services will continue until Tuesday next, when the Colonel will draw his services to a close by giving his famous lecture "My trip round the World." Keen the above services in mind, every night at 8 p. m. Everybody welcome.

Today was designated as School of Educational Day in the Christmas Seal Campaign throughout the nation. An especial effort was made to interest the children in doing their little bit toward the success of the Seal Sale.

Every effort was made to bring the practical benefits derived from the local sale before the scholars and to enlist their support. Dr. William Falconer spoke to the West Side School pupils, Dr. J. W. Quigley to the East End pupils; Dr. J. Paul Frantz to the High School and Junior High School and Miss Powell presented the subject to the Market Street school.

The sale of Christmas seals throughout Clearfield County has been very encouraging up to this time.

A FINE ENTERTAINMENT

Little S. Tillotson, Globe Traveler of Hawaii gave a pleasing entertainment on the Hawaiian Islands that Paradise of the Pacific at the Presbyterian church. She appeared in the gown that the native women wear in that country decked in tropical flowers.

Miss Tillotson is a world wide traveler and not only has something to say but knows how to say it. She has a most pleasing and interesting manner of delivery. All were pleased. The lecturer spoke of the hospitality of the country, of the wonderful feather royal robes, described the food and manner of making it, of the customs and habits, ancient folk lore and of the scenic grandeur. Her descriptions were vivid and in speaking of the burning crater one could fairly see the boiling lava and smell the sulphur. She brought out the fact that although Hawaii has had public schools only about 75 years they are abreast with us on most topics and lead in others. It is almost impossible to find a person who is not a graduate of a grammar school, high school or college. Miss Tillotson took her audience on a trip through the Hawaiian Islands and described the inhabitants and their customs. A fine musical program was furnished by local talent.

of state police in only 33 towns. She has gradually and quietly extended this to 204 facilities since the armistice.

Find Hidden Arms.

Since the armistice the allied commissioners have discovered vast quantities of hidden arms and munitions.

At Heidenau, commissioners found 150 tubes of five-inch guns. One week later they unearthed 343 big gun-tubes. The two caches were enough to arm with artillery two complete corps.

At Namslau thirteen guns were found. At Frankfurt one million cartridges were discovered. At Oberdorf were 407,000 rifle-stocks. At Berlin May 17, two hundred machines for making cartridge-parts and 100,000 haversacks were found concealed in a plumber's shop; at Stuttgart 600 rifles, 400 machine guns, 650,000 cartridges, 7,500 grenades; at Glouan in August 464 boxes of grenades, 800 cases of explosives; at Allenstein 25 machine guns, 180,000 cartridges.

Allied officers believe there are literally hundreds of such deposits throughout Germany. Owing to the smallness of their staff and the secrecy it is only with great difficulty each deposit is discovered.

Inasmuch as Marshall Foch and all military experts agree that the next war will largely be fought with poisonous gases, this phase of German's preparations is viewed with most alarm by observers. The basic raw material for production of explosives and gases is fixed nitrogen in the form of nitric acid and ammonia. Since the war German industrialists have given more attention to the extension of their production in these chemicals than to anything else. Despite German pleas of poverty, the great Oppau works destroyed by explosion in September 1921 is completely restored and in a position to resume full production.

Tens of millions of marks have been added to the capitalization of the synthetic ammonia plants of the Badische Company and the Mercedes-Saxony works.

The German government has evaded allied curiosity by explaining the products are to be used in nitrogen fertilizers by which it is hoped to double the agricultural production.

Allied reports show that on January 1st there were 347 war munitions plants of various kinds not yet converted to peacetime activities. The German explanation is that conversion is too expensive now.

The Commissioners report that Germany is systematically obstructing their investigations.

A trained military observer who recently made an investigation for the London Times reports "Germany is in an incomparably stronger position for the waging of a long war than it was in 1914 or than any other country in the world at this moment," owing to her preponderance in the production of chemicals necessary to warfare.

For these reasons France insists upon the maintenance of allied control and supervision.

Harding Declares

sive, the basis of which was the broadening of the powers of the Farm Loan Board authorizing it to be more liberal with credits and closely linked with the farm problems was that of transportation.

As to transportation he urged that the transportation facilities of the nation, rail, water and all other kinds be co-ordinated and that the transportation lines of the country be merged into a few large systems in order that equipment might be pooled and other savings effected. This legislation is vitally needed in order that no emergency will occur that will again plunge us into government operation of the roads, as it was government operation which brought on the present predicament and "we are still liquidating the cost of that extreme folly."

It is Mr. Harding's plan to abolish the Labor Board, create a Labor Branch of the Interstate Commerce Commission of four members and pass anti-strike measures which will make the decrees of this tribunal enforceable.

At the Sign of the Christmas Tree

"SHOULD auld acquaintance be forgot!" Let's bring back the Christmas of "Auld Lang Syne"—a Christmas that sparkles with old-time hospitality and rings with joyousness and cheer! We cannot truly sing the auld songs unless we make this an old-time Christmas! This Store is in readiness with Gift Selections and Home Accessories to abundantly provide the most generous gift-givers. Prices partake of an old-time flavor, and are lower than in several years.

The Gift of Apparel

Boys and Girls Expect It to Be Hanging on the Tree

New things to wear mean a lot more to a boy than many folks think. Haven't you ever seen a boy fussing over a brand new tie—and surreptitiously trying it on when he thought nobody was looking? Boys' Apparel, Suits—Gloves—Blouses—Ties—Handkerchiefs—Bedroom Slippers and a host of other things are all ready for their tissue wrappers. A Beacon Bathrobe, size 10 $3.00

Girls may be made of sugar 'n spice—but, ask anyone of them if they don't think a new hair ribbon or a pretty new dress is an asset, too! Especially at Christmastime when every other girl and boy is proudly wearing new clothes. A full line of Girls' Apparel includes charming things for parties that include adorable Frocks of chiffon in two colors, or velvet in rich shades. A mohair and silk Sweater is an ideal gift.

TOYLAND

The Unbounded Joy of the Girls and Boys When They Visit Our Toyland Is the Best Recommendation We Could Have of Its Merit ---

And you should see it! If there is a wish of some little boy or some little girl that could not be gratified, that little boy or girl is very hard to please. But we're sure, from the exclamations of delight that we hear every day that there are just the things that will bring the most joy on that eventful Monday morning not far ahead.

There's a little go-cart for Mary—just the same as mother has when she takes little sister out for her airing. Priced from $1.50 to $18.00.

Wonderful Phonographs. The kind mother will let you play whenever you want to and play any record. Priced at $7.95.

A Length of Fabric

for a Chic Draped Frock or Sumptuous Wrap

Once upon a time a clever woman decided to give a gift just a little "different"—so she chose a length of silk for her mother who liked to select her own style from her favorite fashion magazine. The Fabric Section is brimming over with the smartest of the new fabrics. A special selling of Chinchilla suggests a sumptuous wrap. In all the newest colors. $4.00 for a beautiful 54-inch wide Chinchilla.

A Blouse

With Russian Embroideries

The most delectable Blouses we've ever had create interest in the Blouse Section. Embroidered modes—Russian, oriental, Egyptian—all indulge a woman's love for gypsy color—especially when it is used so cleverly on crepe-de-chine Overblouses. Our line of Waists and Blouses is indeed complete. You can select your gift Blouse without any trouble at $5.50

A Sweater

With Primitive Patterns

Patterns on Sweaters have much to do with their charm. On some are quaint Indian designs like those on Indian pottery, on others Egyptian motifs copied from rare Egyptian vestments—on others vivid Roman stripes. Gift selections are large, including all styles and colors. At $6.50 you can purchase an ideal Sweater gift.

The Literary Digest, in its issue of this week, will carry a complete article entitled "The Challenge of the Bootleggers." It is to be presumed that unparalleled weekly is to discuss the nefarious business of the bootlegger.

No better title for the advertisement could have been chosen. The slogan of successful advertising is "Truth in Advertising" so refer to bootlegging and its many aspects as "The Challenge of the Bootleggers" is indeed appropriate.

A more arrogant, impudent, lawless and unprincipled individual than the bootlegger could not be found.

He conducts his business in defiance of the highest law of the land, a very part of the constitution, the foundation of our government.

He sells the rankest poison ever devised by the hand of man as a beverage to men whose appetites are masters over their minds and their souls.

He boasts that he cannot be caught and gloats over the profits he is making while his victims are going blind by drinking his potions.

He subsidizes by friendship the local peace officers and is permitted to carry on his business right under the nose of the local officials.

He resorts to bribery to cover his tracks, midnight riding to procure and deliver his stock of liquors much in the same manner as the "second story man" who is on no lower moral plane.

Most any constable can tell you, if he will, who the "good fellow" in his bailiwick is who has his sanction, by his inaction, to go to it but watch the federal officers.

Who is the bootlegger in your borough, township or ward?

Even more important, who is the constable who knows him, knows what he is doing, and fails to report to the court when he makes his quarterly return?

It is time for the citizens to find out.

Some two or three weeks ago, a noted Philadelphia divine called on the President to take the lead in advocacy of a strict enforcement of the dry laws and he said the nation would "back him up to the limit." The divine has his answer today.

No plainer words could have been used by the President to make his position clear on the Eighteenth Amendment. Not only that, but to be words but action as well. A conference of all governors is to be called.

The President calls on all good citizens to support the laws saying, "The Eighteenth Amendment will never be repealed. All may as well realize that and act accordingly."

Let the President know that you are backing him up by demanding action on the part of peace officers.

A COLD OR CATARRHApply Green's Ointment To Open Up Air Passages.

When relief is needed, the air passages of the nose and throat are often closed by the accumulation of mucus. This mucus is the result of a cold or catarrh, and it is the cause of the clogging of the air passages. Green's Ointment is the best remedy for this condition, as it opens up the air passages and relieves the clogging.

designs of planes the Peyret machine won easily over all competitors, and established the world's duration record for gliders. It was constructed almost exactly along the lines of Langley's original 'Aerodrome,' being a tandem monoplane.

"The Aerodrome," London, says regarding M. Peyret, designer of the glider: "He has his own ideas about aeroplane design, and they are not those of other aeroplane designers. But they are very much those of the late Samuel Pierpont Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution."

The Smithsonian, of which President Harding is the nominal head, and Dr. Charles D. Walcott as secretary is the directing head, declares: "There is little doubt that had the means been available, Mr. Langley would have lived to see his first man-carrying airplane successfully flown since after his death its ability to fly was demonstrated by Glenn H. Curtiss in 1914."

Curtiss' demonstration was made in support of his defense against the charge of the Wright brothers that his own plane violated their patent rights as first inventors. The United States Supreme Court finally decided in favor of the Wrights.

"Professor Langley," says the Smithsonian statement, "after many years of preliminary study of mathematics and physics of the problem and of the medium of flight, began actual experiments with working models in 1887, and innumerable tests were made of various forms of wings, tails, rudders, and propellers. By 1892, the design was developed sufficiently to build small-size aerodrome models, but the first successful prolonged flight did not take place until May 6, 1896, when aerodrome number five flew under its own power over the Potomac river for one minute and thirty seconds, and on being recovered from the water immediately made a second flight of approximately the same length of time."

The Smithsonian has a photograph of the flight. Its statement continues:

"An even longer flight of one of the steam-driven aerodromes was made on November 28 of the same year."

"In 1898 work was commenced on the full-size man-carrying machine, through funds provided by the Board of Ordnance of the War Department, and after overcoming many apparently insurmountable obstacles, one being the impossibility of securing a suitable gasoline engine, rendering it necessary to build one, the machine was ready for trial in 1903.

"That two unsuccessful attempts in the Fall of that year to get the aerodrome into the air owing to the failure of the launching device, caused so much hostile criticism that the War Department did not feel justified in making further grants for the work."

Professor Langley died in 1906. His machine was stored in the Smithsonian until 1914, when Curtiss demonstrated its practicability over Long Key, N. Y.

"The machine" was overhauled, says the Smithsonian, "but not materially changed except to put it under it for the purpose of taking off the water, thereby adding about 100 pounds to the original weight. These flights proved conclusively that Professor Langley developed and built the first man-carrying aeroplane capable of sustained free flight."

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

DOGS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. G.

The Smithsonian Institution has announced that recent remarkable experiments of the Pezzer glider in the open air have shown that it is capable of flying for a period of time longer than any other glider yet constructed. The Pezzer glider, which is a combination of a glider and a motor-driven airplane, was designed by the late Samuel Pierpont Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution. It was first flown in 1896, and since that time it has been the subject of many experiments. The latest experiments were conducted by the Smithsonian Institution in 1922, and the results were most encouraging. The glider was able to fly for a period of time longer than any other glider yet constructed, and it was also able to fly at a higher altitude than any other glider yet constructed. The Smithsonian Institution is now planning to build a larger and more powerful version of the Pezzer glider, and it is hoped that this new glider will be able to fly for a period of time longer than any other glider yet constructed.

designs of planes the Pezzer machine won easily over all competitors, and established the world's duration record for gliders. It was constructed almost exactly along the lines of Langley's original 'Aerodrome,' being a tandem monoplane.

"The Aerodrome," London, says regarding M. Pezzer, designer of the glider: "He has his own ideas about aeroplane design, and they are not those of other airplane designers. But they are very much those of the late Samuel Pierpont Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution."

The Smithsonian, of which President Harding is the nominal head, and Dr. Charles D. Walcott as secretary, is the custodian of the Pezzer machine. It was designed by the late Samuel Pierpont Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution. It was first flown in 1896, and since that time it has been the subject of many experiments. The latest experiments were conducted by the Smithsonian Institution in 1922, and the results were most encouraging. The glider was able to fly for a period of time longer than any other glider yet constructed, and it was also able to fly at a higher altitude than any other glider yet constructed. The Smithsonian Institution is now planning to build a larger and more powerful version of the Pezzer glider, and it is hoped that this new glider will be able to fly for a period of time longer than any other glider yet constructed.

carrying airplane successfully flown since after his death its ability to fly was demonstrated by Glenn H. Curtiss in 1914.

Curtiss' demonstration was made in support of his defense against the charge of the Wright brothers that his own plane violated their patent rights as first inventors. The United States Supreme Court finally decided in favor of the Wrights.

"Professor Langley," says the Smithsonian statement, "after many years of preliminary study of mathematics and physics of the problem and of the medium of flight, began actual experiments with working models in 1887, and innumerable tests were made of various forms of wings, tails, rudders, and propellers. By 1896 the design was developed sufficiently to build small-size aerodrome models, but the first successful prolonged flight did not take place until May 6, 1896, when aerodrome number five flew under its own power over the Potomac river for one minute and thirty seconds, and on being recovered from the water immediately made a second flight of approximately the same length of time."

The Smithsonian has a photograph of the flight. Its statement continues: "An even longer flight of one of the steam-driven aerodromes was made on November 28 of the same year."

"In 1898 work was commenced on the full-size man-carrying machine, through funds provided by the Board of Ordnance of the War Department, and after overcoming many apparently insurmountable obstacles, one being the impossibility of securing a suitable gasoline engine, rendering it necessary to build one, the machine was ready for trial in 1903."

"That two unsuccessful attempts in the fall of that year to get the aerodrome into the air owing to the failure of the launching device, caused so much hostile criticism that the War Department did not feel justified in making further grants for the work."

Professor Langley died in 1906. His machine was stored in the Smithsonian until 1914, when Curtiss demonstrated its practicability over Lake Keuka, N. Y.

"The machine was overhauled," says the Smithsonian, "but not materially changed except to put it under it for the purpose of taking off the water, thereby adding about 30 pounds to the original weight. The flights proved conclusively that Professor Langley developed and built the first man-carrying aeroplane capable of sustained free flight."

The Challenge of the Bootleggers

A saturnalia of bootlegging seems to be no exaggerated phrase to describe the startling state of affairs to which the Administration calls the nation's attention. Inspired Washington dispatches tell us that the present Prohibition enforcement methods are "debauching and debasing the entire country"; that the President is "deeply concerned over a belief that the moral fiber of the American people is deteriorating through the open disrespect shown for the effort to enforce Prohibition"; and that "the growth of bootlegging, the temerity of rum-runners, and the serious insinuations against Federal enforcement officers have been worrying the Administration for some months," until finally—"With Prohibition enforcement recognized as on the verge of absolute collapse in four States and in a condition of serious demoralization elsewhere in the country, President Harding considered to-day the issuance of a solemn public appeal to all good citizens to discourage bootlegging as a last resort to administer the law."

"One way to make Prohibition prohibit," declares the New York Evening Post, "would be to arrest some of the prominent and respectable people who buy what the bootleggers sell."

The leading article in The Literary Digest this week takes up the subject of the enforcement of the Prohibition laws and presents the opinions of leading newspapers as to ways and means.

Don't Get Up Nights For Bladder Ills

Dayton Man Reports Relief With Simple Remedy After Getting Up 15 or 20 Times Each Night for Two Years

Mr. Julius Mayer, 1444 East Fifth St. says in his own home paper, the Dayton News: "For two years my bladder caused me to get up many times at night and too frequent in the day. After taking a few doses of Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula), my bladder works perfectly normal and I can sleep all night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) acts on the kidneys and bladder at once. It does the work which comes from the bladder after taking a few doses of Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula). It is not a patent medicine, as the formula is on the package. The tablets cost 25c each. This price makes it possible to place in the formula several high-priced drugs, which are useful to give relief. It is not likely that you have ever taken a remedy similar to this. Try a few doses for backache, swelling, scanty or high-colored urine and frequent desire at night. You can see the formula and learn more about Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) at Stewart's Drug Store and drug stores everywhere, or write The Keller Laboratory, Manchester, Ohio.

fail. The farmers would improve their standing a good deal if they would only keep accounts. It is necessary to keep a record of the man and horse hours on the farms and also how much cash comes in and how much money is expended. In order to keep the boy on the farm Mr. Fox said, it is necessary to show him something tangible at the end of the year. A business can not be run on guesses. The farmer in the future will specialize more than at the present time, and it will be necessary to have records to increase their standard of living. At the present time it is figured in raising the ordinary crop and selling it to the consumer that it costs thirty-seven per cent to produce the article on the farm, thirteen per cent profit is expended in the channels of trade and the other fifty per cent is due to disrupted marketing methods. Every farmer should have the new year by making a record of the year's work. Where there is a good system installed you are sure to find a good business organization.

Dr. J. N. Rosenberger, Manager of C. F. said that there is a great tendency, in Co-operative Associations, at the present time, "to let George do it". That is a farmer will not do his share towards making the Co-operative Association a success, but wants his neighbor to do the work. Doctor Rosenberger stated that during the infancy of Co-operative Associations it was necessary to endure a few hardships. Better times are ahead and the farmer should not be discouraged by present conditions. It has been the general thought of trade in the past that the other fellow was out to do you and that it was necessary for you to be on your guard and do him if you could. The time of change is coming, there are some people who are honest. The principle of co-operation is the one thing that will live in the future, and not the money that has been made or the low prices that have been secured. The co-operative movement is being properly understood, and therefore is receiving the support of the industries that save the world.

Doctor Rosenberger offered a few suggestions for a successful Association. He said, have a very good system of accounts installed. Limit the number of articles purchased, an buy them well and sell for sufficient profit to run the business. Members should not make too great a demand on the Organization. Obtain a good "five wire" to manage the Co-operative Association. The old line dealer cannot sell for Co-operative Association. Co-operative Associations will have to be run on orders and not keep stock on hand. It is essential that the farmers place their orders before the time that they actually need them, because the market, at off seasons, is generally at a low figure, and goods should be contracted for at that time, and be delivered when they are needed. Every Organization should have a Marketing Committee to study market conditions and to plan ahead. It is necessary for this Committee to take a chance on the market some times. Doctor Rosenberger said that the P. F. C. F. had saved the farmers of Pennsylvania, on an average of seven dollars a ton, on fertilizer. Two to two and one half cents a pound on Binder Twine, and ten dollars a ton feed. The State Organization sold four hundred thousand dollars worth of business to the farmers last year for three hundred thousand dollars. If this one hundred thousand dollars was divided among the farmers who bought through the Co-operative Association, this saving would pay the interest on the investment necessary to run the farm for that time. Doctor Rosenberger said that subordinate Organizations such as The Clearfield County Co-operative Association should sell to non-members at the same price as to members then give dividends to members and there would be no trouble to bring the non-members across.

Doctor Rosenberger said that the Farm Agent is one of the best friends that the farmer has and should be ably supported in his work. State College has asked the Legislature for an appropriation of one hundred thousand dollars for Rural Economics Extension to teach young men how to market farm products. More power for the cooperative movement.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:
Directors—John Forsyth, M. W. Weis, Arthur, Harrison Straw, A. G. Peters, A. O. Bilger, W. L. Shoening, Willard Carr, A. G. Peters.
At Large—Grant Sankey, A. H. Read, Odin Gesthart.
Harrison Straw, President.
John Forsyth, Vice-President.
A. Y. Etrav, Secretary-Treasurer.

The Executive Committee elected to take charge of the business of the Organization for the ensuing year:
Harrison Straw, John Forsyth, Willard Carr.

Beets Help Calf.

Beet crops have the effect of stimulating the soil. Observations made abroad show that after beets have been grown on the land there has been an increase in the yield of wheat of 50 bushels per acre; 100, 150; barley, 650, and oats, 577. Cattle have increased and the net income has been raised as high as 70 per cent.

STAMP OUT TUBERCULOSIS WITH XMAS SEALS

D. W. GRIFFITH PRESENTS

Way Down East

Based on Wm. A Brady's Famous Play by Lottie Blair Parker and Jos. R. Grismer

It's a simple story of plain folks—the greatest of all Griffith plays—uncommonly well done and with breath-taking effect.

Every audience has set spellbound thru the unfolding of this great production. With its humaneness and its story of unusual love, its thrills and its pathos, it stands alone in the field of spectacular pictures.

The all star cast which carries out the story quite eclipses any cast that ever appeared in this piece on the speaking stage.

Many a Gift Suggestion Lurks in the Silk Folds of Lingerie

The silk roses that flower the front of a frenchy Chemise suggest that you give it to Jane who is to be married before long. She'd love it for her hope chest. The tailored undies without lace or frills would be just the thing for Ann away at college where laundry isn't very carefully handled. A dainty Camisole or fancy Brassiere makes a nice gift for intimate girl friends and needn't cost a great deal.

Harding Declares Eighteenth Amendment Will Stand Forever

"All May As Well Realize That and Act Accordingly," Says Pres. In Message Today.

CALLS GOVERNORS

Still Against League; Urges Abolition of Rail Wage Board and Setting up of New System.

VARIED SUBJECTS

For the first time in history the words of a president as he spoke to Congress will be heard all over the nation. The message was radioed from the Anacostia station with naval officers in charge. President Harding spoke directly into a transmitter. It is believed that the words will carry as far as the Rocky Mountains and be heard plainly all along the Atlantic Coast.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—In a message that covered the entire scope of domestic and foreign problems confronting the United States, President Harding told before Congress the most extensive legislative program outlined in many years and took occasion throughout his message to make statements of policy, and purpose which strengthen those who heard him.

As the president before the world the foreign policy of the United States government is being the same as when he took office—refusal to become a part of any European league or organization.

His domestic program contained startling proposals. Among them was abolition of the Railway Wage Board and the setting up of a Labor Board of the Interstate Commerce Commission composed of four members, with anti-strike legislation to support it.

Consolidation of the railroads of the country into a few great systems. An anti-child labor amendment to the constitution.

Additional legislation in the form of loan extension and broader powers for the Farm Loan Board to assist agriculture.

An answer to Georges Clemenceau and others who criticize the post war attitude of the United States.

A conference of all the governors of the forty-eight states of the nation on prohibition enforcement.

To the critics of the government on its past war attitude, President Harding said in effect that this nation has not and would not judge European controversies as between nations, become umpire, referee or accept any other entangling commission. And that it would not become a member of any league, the obligations of which would plunge us into European disputes, territorial or otherwise.

President Harding emphatically called on the nation to uphold the Eighteenth Amendment and prohibition enforcement declaring conditions relating to enforcement now savor of national disgrace and that condonation of lawlessness in respect to the Volstead Act was building up a contempt for law which might ultimately destroy the very foundation of the republic. He stated that the frequency of law violations constituted a most demoralizing influence which must be removed.

To the end that these liquor law violations be minimized the president announced that he will immediately call a conference of the governors of all the states for the purpose of formulating a definite policy or program of liquor law enforcement.

There was no evidence of the President weakening on the liquor question. He emphatically declared "The Eighteenth Amendment will never be repealed. All may as well realize that and act accordingly."

His recommendations to Congress as the problems confronting the farmer were varied and comprehensive.

RORY O'CONNOR AND LIAM MELLOWS EXECUTED BY THE FREE STATERS IN REPRISALS FOR MURDER OF HALES

Dublin, Ireland, Dec. 8.—Rory O'Connor and Liam Mellows, Irish "rebels" captured after the insurrection against the Free State in Dublin some months ago were, executed by the Free State Government this morning. Four other rebel officers, were executed at the same time. It was announced that the executions were in reprisal for the assassination of Sean Hales, a member of the Free State parliament, which took place yesterday.

The execution caused almost as much excitement among the insurgents as did the execution of Childers a few weeks ago as O'Connors and Mellows were looked upon as the heroes of the siege of the Four Corners, both sticking to their posts against heavy odds until captured.

U. S. MAILS ROBBED IN TWO MISSOURI CITIES EARLY TODAY

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 8.—United States Mail was seized by armed bandits here and at St. Joseph, Mo., today in swift raids in which wagon drivers were kidnapped and mail clerks were held up at the point of a pistol. At Kansas City by kidnapping wagon drivers the bandits looted more than eighty parcels and obtained many thousands of dollars of valuables. At St. Joseph mail clerks were held up and many parcels of registered mail taken.

MRS. CATHERINE COULTER

The funeral of Mrs. Catharine Tabitha Coulter, wife of William E. Coulter, was held in the U. B. church at Sanborn Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. E. J. Hummel of Clearfield, in the presence of a large concourse of the people of the community and friends from Johnstown, Clearfield and other places. She leaves to mourn a husband, four sons and two daughters, Calvin, Harold, Leroy and Allison, Laura and Velma, also two brothers and other near relatives. Mrs. Coulter died of sugar diabetes after an illness of several years. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of the community.

Rockview Prisoners Are Taking Instruction From State College Courses

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 8. (U. P.)—Fifty prisoners at the Eastern Penitentiary are studying engineering subjects under the extension department of the Pennsylvania State College so as to fit themselves to face the world when they are released from the institution.

For many years the prisoners have been taking engineering and agricultural courses by correspondence, but through arrangements with State College a regular classroom was equipped by Warden McKenty where classes are now held.

MYSTERY STREAM GUSHING FROM HILL BRINGS RELIEF IN ANTHRACITE DROUGHT

Pottsville, Pa., Dec. 7.—In the midst of the greatest drought ever known in the anthracite region, threatening to shut off the mining of coal, a large stream of water where none has ever been known before, was today gushing out from under the Philadelphia and Reading railway tracks in the southern part of this county. The sudden appearance of the water at this time seemed miraculous and crowds of incredulous people went to see the unusual sight.

It came like the famous "Providence Spring" in Andersonville prison during the Civil War days when men were dying of thirst on what amounted to a desert spot in Georgia. As "Providence Spring" burst forth unexpectedly, so came the deluge of water in the midst of a terrific drought, in the lower end of this county.

It has been found that the water does not come from any leaking water pipes and its origin from the base of Shary mountain is a mystery.

CLEARFIELD COUNTY CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION HEARS INTERESTING TALKS ON IMPORTANCE OF ACCOUNTS

Much Other Business of Importance Is Carried On At Fourth Annual Meeting Held Here December 5th.

MANAGER GIVES REPORT

The Fourth Annual Meeting of the Clearfield County Co-Operative Association was held in the Court House on December 5th, and was attended by about forty farmers. These included M. A. Weisgarber, W. H. Hartzfeld, G. A. Faudie, J. F. Wingert, J. A. Arnold, J. H. Hartzfeld, Luthersburg, A. G. Peters Woodland; H. M. Shimmell, West Decatur; A. Y. Straw, Clearfield; A. O. Bilger, Grampian, R. T. Mitchell, Jr., Mahaffey; W. L. Schonenberg, New Millport; F. C. Mahaffey, Mahaffey; James Mullen, Woodland.

Willard Carr, Clearfield; J. P. Watts, Kermoo; Elmer Peters, Clearfield; D. O. Wilson, Woodland; Harrison Straw, Clearfield; S. A. Smeal Clearfield; Harvey E. Smith, Shawville; Joseph F. Bunnell, Curwensville; T. L. Wall Grampian; John Forsyth Clearfield; George Fulton, Clearfield; Verne Lutz, Clearfield; C. E. Erhard Clearfield; Joseph Morris, Clearfield; William Butler, West Decatur.

Mr. C. E. Fox, Accountant Rural Economics Extension Department State College, Pa., was the first speaker on the program, and he said that the majority of the Co-Operative Associations were rather lax in their accounts. The big industries are making good because they keep good accounts. The farmers have poor accounts and consequently they

Astoria, Oregon, Dec. 8.—Fire today threatened the entire business section of this city. The fire, at last reports, was still raging and had consumed nineteen city blocks with a property loss running over $10,000,000. The fire broke out in a poor room at a late hour last night and is eating its way into the very heart of the city.

Morris D. Staples, President of the Bank of Commerce dropped dead of heart failure while fighting the flames.

BEZDEK TO REFUSE TO LEAVE STATE TO PILOT THE "PHILS"

State College, Dec. 6.—Penn State students were filled with joy tonight when they learned that Hugo Bezdek had refused the offer to manager the Philadelphia National league baseball team and had decided to remain in college work here. The Phillie job would have meant probably double the salary that he receives as director of athletics at Penn State.

"With me it is a question of service," said Bezdek tonight, "and feel that there is a far greater opportunity for service in working with young college men than there would be in professional baseball. In college work there is the wonderful chance to influence the young men the right way and to help material in building character. Financially this means the sacrifice of several thousand dollars a year, but idealism and money and I find that my ideal can best be worked out in college ranks. In making my decision, many appeals from students and alumni asking me to remain in Penn State also had their effect and for these reasons I felt that I could not consider the Phillies offer."

TRINITY CHURCH

The revival meeting in Trinity church is started every night with prayer service and song periods. Last night, despite the reduced number present, both went forward with exceptional spirit. The singing was fine. New selections that mature everyone because of their sentiment and wonderful music were learned Prof. Jones had the entire congregation in jubilant singing spirit and general response to his leading.

With two texts, "He became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross," and "As by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of One shall many be made righteous," the sermon was built into a study of the Atonement, which was treated from obedience to the divine will and sufferings, though innocent, the penalty of guilt, taking the place of the sinner.

Tonight is the last secular night for Prof. Jones. The song service starts at 7:30. Prayer meeting, Saturday night, open-air meeting, with singing and address. Sunday has a full program from Bible school and the morning and evening worship. Also, a men's meeting at 3 o'clock.

PENNSYLVANIA'S SOFT COAL OUTPUT IN 1921 REACHED 107,019,246 TONS, THIS COUNTY PRODUCED 5,200,714

Value of Coal Going Out of This County Is Set at $15,000,000 By the State Department.

WORKED 120 DAYS

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 8.—Pennsylvania's bituminous coal fields gave up 107,019,246 tons of bituminous coal in 1921, according to figures made public today by Secretary of Internal Affairs James F. Woodward, following the completion of an industrial survey of the bituminous mine districts by the Bureau of Statistics and Information of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs. Secretary Woodward added that the value of the bituminous production at the mines was $300,295,100 last year.

Records compiled by the Department of Internal Affairs show that there were 1,236 bituminous mining establishments in the State in 1921 which worked on an average of 135 days during the year. The mines gave employment to 174,489 persons of whom 68,855 were Americans white, 3,430 were Americans colored and 102,204 were foreigners. Of the total employees 174,484 were males and 11 females, four of the latter being employed in Allegheny County and seven having been reported in Washington County. There were 150 boys under the age of 16 years engaged in mine work.

Bituminous mine workers were paid a total wage during the year of $190,743,700 all but $8,700 of which went to the male employees. The capital invested in the bituminous mines in 1921 was $217,751,800.

Of the total bituminous tonnage in Pennsylvania, almost one-half of it was shipped to points outside of Pennsylvania for consumption, the records showing that the amount shipped from the State was $0,131,969 tons, with a value at the mines of $143,256,300.

In shipments made outside of the State, Cambria County led, the shipments totalling 8,701,442 tons worth $27,757,000 at the mines. Washington county stood second with 8,527,581 tons forwarded to points outside of Pennsylvania, this tonnage having a value of $21,143,406 at the mines.

In total production in 1921, Westmoreland county led all of the other bituminous counties of the State with a production of 16,784,168 tons. Fayette county stood second in production with 15,869,647 tons and Washington county was third with 15,467,987 tons. Fourth on the list was Cambria county with 15,099,218 tons; and Allegheny was fifth with 11,412,842 tons.

In production value at the mines Cambria county headed the list with $48,123,000, and Westmoreland was second with $43,580,300. Standing third was Washington county with $38,143,406.

Lauanne, Dec. 8.—The Turks today accepted the freedom of the Dardanelles with minor reservations and the meeting adjourned to permit Lord Curzon to consult with the Allied leaders before proceeding to the next step in the negotiations. The Turkish answer did not seriously cash with the Allied plans.

REVIVAL SERVICES COMMENCE AT SALVATION ARMY

A series of six days revival services opened at the Salvation Army last night at 8 p. m. Colonel Joseph Hammond who is a world wide Evangelist and Salvation Army traveler is conducting this series of meetings. His talk last night showed the reality of the devil, and how he has great power. "There is something more than an imaginary Devil" the Colonel went on to say "He is a personal devil." He also showed through his talk on Job, how God was able to take us overcochers under every trial of life.

Tonight the Colonel will speak on "Boundless Salvation". Everybody is invited to attend this important service.

These services will continue until Tuesday next, when the Colonel will draw his services to a close by giving his famous lecture "My trip round the World." Keen the above services in mind, every night at 8 p. m. Everybody welcome.

Today was designated as School of Educational Day in the Christmas Seal Campaign throughout the nation. An especial effort was made to interest the children in doing their little bit toward the success of the Seal Sale.

Every effort was made to bring the practical benefits derived from the local sale before the scholars and to enlist their support. Dr. William Falconer spoke to the West Side School pupils, Dr. J. W. Quigley to the East End pupils; Dr. J. Paul Frantz to the High School and Junior High School and Miss Powell presented the subject to the Market Street school.

The sale of Christmas seals through Clearfield County has been very encouraging up to this time.

A FINE ENTERTAINMENT

Little S. Tillotson, Globe Traveler of Hawaii gave a pleasing entertainment on the Hawaiian Islands that Paradise of the Pacific at the Presbyterian church. She appeared in the gown that the native women wear in that country decked in tropical flowers.

Miss Tillotson is a world wide traveler and not only has something to say but knows how to say it. She has a most pleasing and interesting manner of delivery. All were pleased. The lecturer spoke of the hospitality of the country, of the wonderful feather royal robes, described the food and manner of making it, of the customs and habits, ancient folk lore and of the scenic grandeur. Her descriptions were vivid and in speaking of the burning crater one could fairly see the boiling lava and smell the sulphur. She brought out the fact that although Hawaii has had public schools only about 75 years they are abreast with us on most topics and lead in others. It is almost impossible to find a person who is not a graduate of a grammar school, high school or college. Miss Tillotson took her audience on a trip through the Hawaiian Islands and described the inhabitants and their customs. A fine musical program was furnished by local talent.

of state police in only 33 towns. She has gradually and quietly extended this to 204 facilities since the armistice.

Find Hidden Arms. Since the armistice the allied commissioners have discovered vast quantities of hidden arms and munitions.

At Heidenau, commissioners found 150 tubes of five-inch guns. One week later they unearthed 343 big gun-tubes. The two caches were enough to arm with artillery two complete corps.

At Namslau thirteen guns were found. At Frankfurt one million cartridges were discovered. At Oberdorf were 407,000 rifle-stocks. At Berlin May 17, two hundred machines for making cartridge-parts and 100,000 haversacks were found concealed in a plumber's shop; at Stuttgart 600 rifles, 400 machine guns, 650,000 cartridges, 7,500 grenades; at Glouan in August 464 boxes of grenades, 800 cases of explosives; at Allenstein 25 machine guns, 180,000 cartridges.

Allied officers believe there are literally hundreds of such deposits throughout Germany. Owing to the smallness of their staff and the secrecy it is only with great difficulty each deposit is discovered.

Inasmuch as Marshall Foch and all military experts agree that the next war will largely be fought with poisonous gases, this phase of German's preparations is viewed with most alarm by observers. The basic raw material for production of explosives and gases is fixed nitrogen in the form of nitric acid and ammonia.

Since the war German industrialists have given more attention to the extension of their production in these chemicals than to anything else. Despite German pleas of poverty, the great Oppau works destroyed by explosion in September 1921 is completely restored and in a position to resume full production. Tens of millions of marks have been added to the capitalization of the synthetic ammonia plants of the Badische Company and the Merseburg Saxony works.

The German government has evaded allied curiosity by explaining the products are to be used in nitrogen fertilizers by which it is hoped to double the agricultural production.

Allied reports show that on January 1st there were 347 war munitions plants of various kinds not yet converted to peacetime activities. The German explanation is that conversion is too expensive now.

The Commissioners report that Germany is systematically obstructing their investigations.

A trained military observer who recently made an investigation for the London Times reports "Germany is in an incomparably stronger position for the waging of a long war than it was in 1914 or than any other country in the world at this moment," owing to her preponderance in the production of chemicals necessary to warfare.

For these reasons France insists upon the maintenance of allied control and supervision.

Harding Declares

sive, the basis of which was the broadening of the powers of the Farm Loan Board authorizing it to be more liberal with credits and closely linked with the farm problems was that of transportation.

As to transportation he urged that the transportation facilities of the nation, rail, water and all other kinds be co-ordinated and that the transportation lines of the country be merged into a few large systems in order that equipment might be pooled and other savings effected. This legislation is vitally needed in order that no emergency will occur that will again plunge us into government operation of the roads, as it was government operation which brought on the present predicament and "we are still liquidating the cost of that extreme folly."

It is Mr. Harding's plan to abolish the Labor Board, create a Labor Branch of the Interstate Commerce Commission of four members and pass anti-strike measures which will make the decrees of this tribunal enforceable.

The Literary Digest, in its issue of this week, will carry a complete article entitled "The Challenge of the Bootleggers." It is to be presumed that unparalleled weekly is to discuss the nefarious business of the bootlegger.

No better title for the advertisement could have been chosen. The slogan of successful advertising is "Truth in Advertising" so refer to bootlegging and its many aspects as "The Challenge of the Bootleggers" is indeed appropriate.

A more arrogant, impudent, lawless and unprincipled individual than the bootlegger could not be found.

He conducts his business in defiance of the highest law of the land, a very part of the constitution, the foundation of our government.

He sells the rankest poison ever devised by the hand of man as a beverage to men whose appetites are masters over their minds and their souls.

He boasts that he cannot be caught and gloats over the profits he is making while his victims are going blind by drinking his potions.

He subsidizes by friendship the local peace officers and is permitted to carry on his business right under the nose of the local officials.

He resorts to bribery to cover his tracks, midnight riding to procure and deliver his stock of liquors much in the same manner as the "second story man" who is on no lower moral plane.

Most any constable can tell you, if he will, who the "good fellow" in his bailiwick is who has his sanction, by his inaction, to go to it but watch the federal officers.

Who is the bootlegger in your borough, township or ward?

Even more important, who is the constable who knows him, knows what he is doing, and fails to report to the court when he makes his quarterly return?

It is time for the citizens to find out.

Some two or three weeks ago, a noted Philadelphia divine called on the President to take the lead in advocacy of a strict enforcement of the dry laws and he said the nation would "back him up to the limit." The divine has his answer today.

No plainer words could have been used by the President to make his position clear on the Eighteenth Amendment. Not only that, but to be words but action as well. A conference of all governors is to be called.

The President calls on all good citizens to support the laws saying, "The Eighteenth Amendment will never be repealed. All may as well realize that and act accordingly."

Let the President know that you are backing him up by demanding action on the part of peace officers.

ODDS AND ENDS
AND THINGS

By J. D. G.

The Smithsonian Institution has received that recent remarkable achievement of the English glider in the person of the "Percy" glider. This glider, built by Percy Pilcher, was a tandem monoplane, and was a first in the world to produce mechanical power.

The Smithsonian is generally conceded to be the greatest of science in the United States. It is a place where the most important scientific discoveries are made, and where the most important scientific results are published.

The Percy glider, which is a tandem monoplane, was built by Percy Pilcher, and was a first in the world to produce mechanical power.

Twenty years ago Samuel Pierpont Langley made the second successful flight with the "Aerodrome," the model of which is now in the Smithsonian Institution. It was a tandem monoplane, and was a first in the world to produce mechanical power.

Open Up Air Passages.

When relief is needed, the air passages of the nose and throat are often closed by the accumulation of mucus. This mucus is the result of a cold or catarrh, and it is the cause of the difficulty in breathing. Green's Ointment is a remedy for this condition, and it is the best remedy for this condition.

designs of planes the Peyret machine won easily over all competitors, and established the world's duration record for gliders. It was constructed almost exactly along the lines of Langley's original "Aerodrome," being a tandem monoplane.

"The Aerodrome," London, says regarding M. Peyret, designer of the glider: "He has his own ideas about aeroplane design, and they are not those of other aeroplane designers."

But they are very much those of the late Samuel Pierpont Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution."

The Smithsonian, of which President Harding is the nominal head, and Dr. Charles D. Walcott as secretary is the directing head, declares:

"There is little doubt that had the means been available, Mr. Langley would have lived to see his first plane carrying airplane successfully flown since after his death its ability to fly was demonstrated by Glenn H. Curtiss in 1914."

Curtiss' demonstration was made in support of his defense against the charge of the Wright brothers that his own plane violated their patent rights as first inventors. The United States Supreme Court finally decided in favor of the Wrights.

"Professor Langley," says the Smithsonian statement, "after many years of preliminary study of mathematics and physics of the problem and of the medium of flight, began actual experiments with working models in 1887, and innumerable tests were made of various forms of wings, tails, rudders, and propellers."

"By 1895 the design was developed sufficiently to build small-size aerodrome models, but the first successful prolonged flight did not take place until May 6, 1896, when aerodrome number five flew under its own power over the Potomac river for one minute and thirty seconds, and on being recovered from the water immediately made a second flight of approximately the same length of time."

The Smithsonian has a photograph of the flight. Its statement continues:

"An even longer flight of one of the steam-driven aerodromes was made on November 28 of the same year."

"In 1898 work was commenced on the full-size man-carrying machine, through funds provided by the Board of Ordnance of the War Department, and after overcoming many apparently insurmountable obstacles, one being the impossibility of securing a suitable gasoline engine, rendering it necessary to build one, the machine was ready for trial in 1903.

"That two unsuccessful attempts in the Fall of that year to get the aerodrome into the air owing to the failure of the launching device, caused so much hostile criticism that the War Department did not feel justified in making further grants for the work."

Professor Langley died in 1906. His machine was stored in the Smithsonian until 1914, when Curtiss demonstrated its practicability over Long Key, N. Y.

"The machine" was overhauled says the Smithsonian, "but not materially changed except to put it under it for the purpose of taking of the water, thereby adding about 100 pounds to the original weight. These flights proved conclusively that Professor Langley developed and built the first man-carrying aeroplane capable of sustained free flight."

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

But Will She Get
What She Wants?

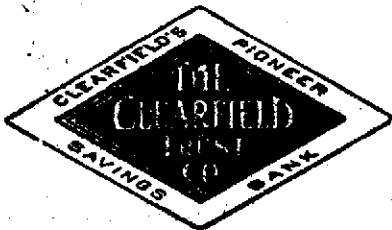

That depends on the state of your finances. If you will be forehanded enough to join our 1923 Xmas Club, which is open now, you'll be sure that you can meet Nellie's and Billy's demands when they tell Old Santa what they want.

Our clubs, in the years they have been going, have been a great boon to hundreds of folks —we have simplified the matter of payments, we have cut down the classes, we have made everything just as clear and easy as anything could be made. We have little kiddies hardly big enough to hand their little savings up through the windows but they know when they start that they are going to get just what the class calls for plus the three per cent. interest for the time the money is being saved through us.

The Smithsonian Institution has announced that recent remarkable experiments of the Pezzer glider in the open air have been successful. The glider, designed by Samuel Pierpont Langley, was constructed almost exactly along the lines of Langley's original "Aerodrome," being a tandem monoplane.

"The Aerodrome," London, says regarding M. Pezzer, designer of the glider: "He has his own ideas about aeroplane design, and they are not those of other aeroplane designers. But they are very much those of the late Samuel Pierpont Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution."

The Smithsonian, of which President Harding is the nominal head, and Dr. Charles D. Walcott as secretary, is the custodian of the Pezzer glider, which in a contest in England recently won over the Wrights' glider, was declared to have been modeled after the Langley design as shown in the Smithsonian statement.

Twenty-six years ago Samuel Pierpont Langley made the second successful flight with the steam-driven model "Aerodrome," the model requiring only the six one-minute, and five seconds, covering approximately three-quarters of a mile.

Professor Langley's design for a man-carrying glider has recently received a vindication in the Daily Mail's gliding competition in England. Of nine entries of various designs of planes the Pezzer machine won easily over all competitors, and established the world's duration record for gliders; it was constructed almost exactly along the lines of Langley's original "Aerodrome," being a tandem monoplane.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

"n Santa, I Want--"

But Will She Get What She Wants?

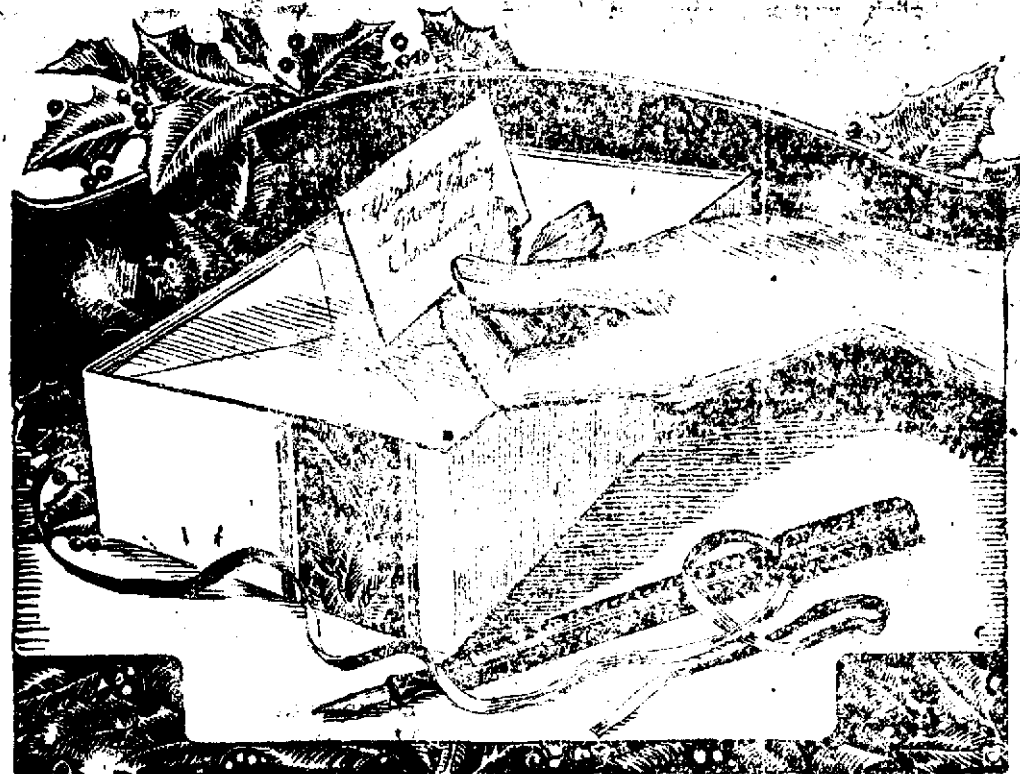

That depends on the state of your finances. If you will be forehanded enough to join our 1923 Xmas Club, which is open now, you'll be sure that you can meet Nellie's and Billy's demands when they tell Old Santa what they want.

Our clubs, in the years they have been going, have been a great boon to hundreds of folks — we have simplified the matter of payments, we have cut down the classes, we have made everything just as clear and easy as anything could be made. We have little kiddies hardly big enough to hand their little savings up through the windows but they know when they start that they are going to get just what the class calls for plus the three per cent. interest for the time the money is being saved through us.

Tom Sims SAYS---

It is too late to shop early. The honeymoon was over when the bride fired his servants. Entirely too many little blue boys are blowing their horns. It is found most college classes are led by girls. So are the students. When the worm turns it doesn't always turn into a butterfly. An Irish lecturer says Erin is the sun of Europe. It is pretty warm. Alcohol was distilled first in Arabia so maybe that is why those Arabian nights were so wonderful. We can't decide if fat men get rich or rich men get fat. A secret is what you tell someone not to tell because you promised not to tell it yourself. Watches are handy. Looking at one may mean you either have to go or can stay a few minutes more. Difference between a henpecked man and one who isn't is one gives excuses and the other gives reasons. Every now and then a congressman remembers his duty to the people but the others won't listen.

The Challenge of the Bootleggers

A saturnalia of bootlegging seems to be no exaggerated phrase to describe the startling state of affairs to which the Administration calls the nation's attention. Inspired Washington dispatches tell us that the present Prohibition enforcement methods are "debauching and debasing the entire country"; that the President is "deeply concerned over a belief that the moral fiber of the American people is deteriorating through the open disrespect shown for the effort to enforce Prohibition"; and that "the growth of bootlegging, the temerity of rum-runners, and the serious insinuations against Federal enforcement officers have been worrying the Administration for some months," until finally—"With Prohibition enforcement recognized as on the verge of absolute collapse in four States and in a condition of serious demoralization elsewhere in the country, President Harding considered to-day the issuance of a solemn public appeal to all good citizens to discourage bootlegging as a last resort to administer the law."

"One way to make Prohibition prohibit," declares the New York Evening Post, "would be to arrest some of the prominent and respectable people who buy what the bootleggers sell."

The leading article in The Literary Digest this week takes up the subject of the enforcement of the Prohibition laws and presents the opinions of leading newspapers as to ways and means.

The Season's Screen Novelty

Over one thousand leading theaters are now showing the humorous motion picture, "Fun From the Press." New bookings are being signed as fast as salesmen can cover their territory. And this real laughmaker is just three months old. But no wonder!

"Produced by The Literary Digest" has been an assurance to millions of photoplay fans of a superior product. For more than thirty years The Digest has been an accurate barometer of the public pulse.

So, "Fun From the Press" is the happiest, jolliest collection of rapid-fire mirth presented on any screen. There's a laugh in every flicker of the film. It's the cream of clean humor. If you've missed the first releases, surely see the next. Watch for it every week at your favorite motion-picture haunt. "Fun From the Press" is Produced by The Literary Digest; W. W. SAY "BAYER" when you buy Aspirin

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on the package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product. The genuine Bayer product is described by physicians over twenty years and proved safe by millions for colds, headache, toothache, earache, neuralgia, lumbago, rheumatism, neuritis, and for general aches and pains. Accept only "Bayer" brand tablets or capsules. Handy boxes of twenty tablets each. Do not take more than 4 or 6 tablets at a time. Aspirin is a powerful medicine. Do not take it if you are suffering from stomach trouble, kidney trouble, or any other condition which may be aggravated by its use.

Don't Get Up Nights For Bladder Ills

Dayton Man Reports Relief With Simple Remedy After Getting Up 15 or 20 Times Each Night for Two Years

Mr. Julius Mayer, 1444 East Fifth St. says in his own home paper, the Dayton News: "For two years my bladder caused me to get up many times at night and too frequent in the day. After taking a few doses of Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula), my bladder works perfectly normal and I can sleep all night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) acts on the kidneys and bladder at once. It does the work which comes from the bladder after taking a few doses of Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula). It is not a patent medicine, as the formula is on the package. The tablets cost 25c each. This price makes it possible to place in the formula several high-priced drugs, which are useful to give relief. It is not likely that you have ever taken a remedy similar to this. Try a few doses for backache, swelling, scanty or high-colored urine and frequent desire at night. You can see the formula and learn more about Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) at Stewart's Drug Store and drug stores everywhere or write The Keller Laboratory, Manchester, Ohio.

fail. The farmers would improve their standing a good deal if they would only keep accounts. It is necessary to keep a record of the man and horse hours on the farms and also how much cash comes in and how much money is expended. In order to keep the boy on the farm Mr. Fox said, it is necessary to show him something tangible at the end of the year. A business can not be run on guesses. The farmer in the future will specialize more than at the present time, and it will be necessary to have records to increase their standard of living. At the present time it is figured in raising the ordinary crop and selling it to the consumer that it costs thirty-seven per cent to produce the article on the farm, thirteen per cent profit is expended in the channels of trade and the other fifty per cent is due to disrupted marketing methods. Every farmer should have the new year by making a record of the year.

Where there is a good system installed you are sure to find a good business organization. Doctor J. N. Rosenberger, Manager of the C. F. said that there is a great tendency, in Co-operative Associations, at the present time, "to let George do it". That is a farmer will not do his share towards making the Co-operative Association a success, but wants his neighbor to do the work. Doctor Rosenberger stated that during the infancy of Co-operative Associations it was necessary to endure a few hardships. Better times are ahead and the farmer should not be discouraged by present conditions. It has been the general thought of trade in the past that the other fellow was out to do you and that it was necessary for you to be on your guard and do him if you could. The time of change is coming, there are some people who are honest. The principle of co-operation is the one thing that will live in the future, and not the money that has been made or the low prices that has been secured. The co-operative movement is being properly understood, and therefore is receiving the support of the industries that save the world.

Doctor Rosenberger offered a few suggestions for a successful Association. He said, have a very good system of accounts installed. Limit the number of articles purchased, an buy them well and sell for sufficient profit to run the business. Members should not make too great a demand on the Organization. Obtain a good "five wire" to manage the Co-operative Association. The old line dealer cannot sell for Co-operative Association. Co-operative Associations will have to be run on orders and not keep stock on hand. It is essential that the farmers place their orders before the time that they actually need them, because the market, at off seasons, is generally at a low figure, and goods should be contracted for at that time, and be delivered when they are needed. Every Organization should have a Marketing Committee to study market conditions and to plan ahead. It is necessary for this Committee to take a chance on the market some times. Doctor Rosenberger said that the P. F. C. F. had saved the farmers of Pennsylvania, on an average of seven dollars a ton, on fertilizer. Two to two and one half cents a pound on Binder Twine, and ten dollars a ton feed. The State Organization sold four hundred thousand dollars worth of business to the farmers last year for three hundred thousand dollars. If this one hundred thousand dollars was divided among the farmers who bought through the Co-operative Association, this saving would pay the interest on the investment necessary to run the farm for that time. Doctor Rosenberger said that subordinate Organizations such as The Clearfield County Co-operative Association should sell to non-members at the same price as to members then give dividends to members and there would be no trouble to bring the non-members across.

Doctor Rosenberger said that the Farm Agent is one of the best friends that the farmer has and should be ably supported in his work. State College has asked the Legislature for an appropriation of one hundred thousand dollars for Rural Economics Extension to teach young men how to market farm products. More power for the cooperative movement.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

Directors—John Forsyth, M. W. Weis, Arthur, Harrison Straw, A. G. Peters, A. O. Bilger, W. L. Shoening, Willard Carr, A. G. Peters.

At-Large—Grant Sankey, A. H. Read, Odin Gesthart.

Harrison Straw, President.

John Forsyth, Vice-President.

A. Y. Etrav, Secretary-Treasurer.

The Executive Committee elected to take charge of the business of the Organization for the ensuing year: Harrison Straw, John Forsyth, Willard Carr.

Beets Help Calf.

Beet crops have the effect of stimulating the soil. Observations made abroad show that after beets have been grown on the land there has been an increase in the yield of wheat of 50 bushels per acre; 100, 150; barley, 651, and oats, 577. Cattle have increased and the net income has been raised as high as 70 per cent.

D. W. GRIFFITH PRESENTS

Way Down East

Based on Wm. A Brady's Famous Play by Lottie Blair Parker and
Jos. R. Grismer

It's a simple story of plain folks—the greatest of all Griffith plays—uncommonly well done and with breath-taking effect.

Every audience has set spellbound thru the unfolding of this great production. With its humaneness and its story of unusual love, its thrills and its pathos, it stands alone in the field of spectacular pictures.

The all star cast which carries out the story quite eclipses any cast that ever appeared in this piece on the speaking stage.
